The Pope's Recent Encyclical Letter Meets

With a Rebuff.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.] LONDON, June 29.—English church people of this generation have had no topic of so absorbing interest as Pope Leo XIII's recent encyclical letter addressed to the church folk of England. In that remarkable letter, His Holiness not only expressed a desire that in some way the Roman Catholic church might again be the one church of the English people, but he went further to point the way whereby reconciliation might be brought about.
The letter was written in the tone of father calling back the wandering children, and the whole Christian w especially England, have av intense interest the actor the English church.

That reply has just been received by the English church.

The feeling in England is that no stronger letter could have been written to express the aversion of the English church to any alliance with Rome. The association's reply is an important event in church history.

THE BIG YACHTS RACING.

Valkyrie III and Ailsa Show to Best Advantage.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.] GLASGOW, June 29.—The three great English yachts, A. B. Walker's Ailsa, the Prince of Wales's Britannia and Lord Dunraven's new Valkyrie III, started this morning the royal northern yacht course.

This course is quadrangular and the distance to be sailed is 100 miles, doubling on the course. At the quarter mark of the race the Valkyrie was ten minutes ahead of the Britannia, and sixteen minutes ahead of the Ailsa. Later the yachts were becalmed for a half hour. A stiff breeze then sprang up and in these conditions the Ailsa showed as the best boat and passed both the others.

[LATER.] Again the wind died and the contest became a drifting match in which the new boat got the best of it. She overhauled the others and rounded Largs mark five miles ahead of the Britannia and the Ailsa was three minutes behind the Britannia.
At Skelmarlie the Valkyrie had increased her lead to thirty-one minutes over the Britannia and to thirty-four minutes over the Ailsa.

CHURCH WAR CONTINUED.

An Old Feud Caused by the Beecher-Tilton Trial.

[Special Dispatch to the Transcript.] BROOKLYN, N. Y., June 29.—Plymouth church of this city passed an important resolution last night, looking to a continuation of the old feud between the New York and Brooklyn Congregational churches. It was unanimously voted to decline the proposition made by the Manhattan conference looking to a reconciliation between the churches of the two cities.

The breach between this denomination of the two cities began in the famous Beecher-Tilton trial, when the New York churches condemned Plymouth church for its loyalty to Mr. Beecher. The action taken last night shows that Brooklyn is not yet ready to forgive New York.

THEIR GRADUATION.

Successful Exercises Last Night in St. Joseph's Hall Which

Was Thronged.

FATHER BURKE SPOKE ELOQUENTLY.

Three Thoughtful Essays and a Number of Entertaining Features. Words of Thanks for the Sisters. Presentation of Diplomas.

The graduating exercises of St. Joseph's school, commingled with a very pleasing entertainment, occurred last night in St.
Joseph's hall. The hall was thronged.
On each side of the stage was a fine bank of flowers and over the stage was the motto of the class in flowers.

The opening number was a chorus, "The Harvest Moon" which was finely rendered by the school. Prof. LeClair was at the piano. Following the chorus came the salutatory and essay "Retrospect" by Miss Frances J. Burke. Miss Burke was very retrospective. She reviewed the school life of the class in a very concise and entertaining manner.
She thanked the father, sisters and all for the kind indulgence during the school years. She pointed out very appreciat-ingly what was owing to the care and kindness of these persons. She asked the blessing of the fathers on the graduates' lives and bade all a hearty welcome. Miss Burke delivered her essay with much distinctness and force. Beside her on the stage were the other two members of the class, who had finely rendered the chorus.
"Three toadstools," by Masters J. Brackley, F. Brothers and J. Reilly. These three were very little tots indeed who appeared with umbrellas over their heads and looked very much like toadstools. They spoke their parts well, earned lots of applause and got it. The primary girls gave a pantomime. There were quite a number of these little girls, a dozen and a half or more, dressed in dark colors and white caps much like grandmothers. They wore spectacles and danced very gracefully.
Then came "Keeping House," by Masters W. Davine, P. Stewart, Frank LeClair, J.
Hosrahan, J. Molloy and W. Gaffey. These boys kept house, but discussed baseball more. One little fellow, by the numerous bandages he wore and the limp he had, showed some baseball experience. To a lively time on a fiddle they had as lively a dance and on the whole enjoyed themselves well. Aunt Polly appeared on the scene, heard the noises as she approached and found the fun makers stowed under chairs and tables from which hiding places she very unceremoniously pulled them. The "Hoop Drill," by the junior girls was as fine a piece of stage evolution as has been given in town. The girls were dressed in green with white trimmings and wore Turkish-like caps of white with green tassels. Each carried a hoop decorated with green and white paper.
The girls kept excellent time though the evolutions were difficult. They sang pleasingly "The Old Folks at Home" and danced at intervals.

Miss N. B. Fitzgerald's essay was on "Memories." She showed that memories are as dear as joys experienced. The wonderful pleasure of memory she illustrated by the joy a mariner could find in stormy seas at thoughts of home. She dwelt on different memories and showed what emotions are aroused in a mother contemplating the relics of a dead child.
At the end of all she put the memory of a well spent life. Her essay was logical and showed thought.

The "Kazoo band" by a host of primary boys was very amusing. The boys were dressed in neat white waists and wore conical paper hats. They sang their song with much vigor and played their kazoos with a mischievous spirit. It seemed just as they said, "That the whole wide world was tooting in the Kazoo band."

"Topsy's song" by Miss M. Crystal was a very good character piece. Topsy was dressed in loud topsy tie. Her face was black enough, her dress red enough and as she sang she handled her tambourine well. She danced quite lively, perhaps because she was so "topsy-turvy." The "Quilting" march by six "little ones" was one of the best things of the whole program. The little ones were dressed in white, handled their babies very carefully and carried candles. They looked surely as if they were about to bid good night.
They sang surprisingly. The comical way in which each one left the stage called forth much laughter.

Sixteen junior boys gave the "Waiters' chorus." They were sable, had curly wigs, white aprons and trays. They were accommodating waiters if their song could be believed.

The combination farce, "Running an exhibition," was very laughable. It had these performers: Masters J. Pryor, W.
Gaffey, J. Campbell, F. Whalen, J. Foley, M. Fox, W. Grace, E. Farrell, J. McCue, J. Connors, W. Lynch and T. O'Brien.
The exhibition was a school one, and was interrupted by two Dutchmen, who had lost water melons and a white dog. The police had to be called and the exhibition proved a failure.

Miss E. A. Quinn was valedictorian.
Her essay was on "Hope." She commenced it by a quotation from "Milton on his blindness" to show the poet's hope.
She spoke of the Greeks, the myth of Pandora's box and its story of hope. She then pointed out the hope and courage of Columbus when on the sea to discovery.
Washington was instanced. She attributed his success to truth and hope. Michael Angelo's hope and perseverance were cited. There can be no success in life, she said, without that bright glow of hope. Addressing herself to her classmates she spoke tenderly on their association and its closing. To her pastor, Father Burke, she spoke most feelingly, wishing him all the good and usefulness of life. To her associates and classmates she bade touching farewell.

At the end of the valedictory the very impressive chorus "Wheel of Life," was rendered by the high school. On the stage was a green wheel and, as the chorus was being sung, it was revolved, adding effectively to the impressions of the song.

Rev. Father Burke, who had occupied a seat on the stage while the chorus was being sung, stepped forward and, deeply touched, spoke a few eloquent words.
He thought there was a world of meaning in the minds of the class when it chose its motto, "In Te Domine Speravi," for hope was the predominating thought in all the exercises. Hope for the future that it may bring blessings into the hearts and lives of these young people who go out into the world from the tender fostering care of the good sisters. Here in the schoolroom was another home for them.

They were surrounded here by all the influences of tender hearts, kind souls and considerate minds. I bid you God-speed, dear children. O, you don't know what you are going to face. You have received here a foundation, at least, on which you which you can build a superstructure to meet the storms of life, to brave the tempest and meet temptation. Our thought was to put into your heart and soul the idea of character. Without character we are nothing. No one will wish and pray for you as your pastor; no one will look more anxiously forward than these dear, good sisters. Nobody will watch you with more anxious solicitude.
Your friends in the parish are many.
Friends, why would you not unite with me in saying to these dear children, "Go forth filled with the noble ideas, sentiments and aspirations which these good sisters have implanted in you to guide you in the future and may God bless you." I cannot close without giving thanks to the teachers for their devotion and attention to duty. Quietly, away from the world they have done their work. God bless them. There is only one idea in their lives—to make humanity better. Their life is given to one purpose—to Christian education. We first direct the child to its eternal destiny, to its immortal destiny.
And not only that, we look to its temporal welfare. We educate the whole man; soul, mind and body we educate. That is my idea of education and that is the church's idea of education.
Children, I again bid you God-speed, and God bless you.

At the close of his remarks Father Burke presented the diplomas, placed a ring on a finger of each graduate and, as she knelt, bestowed upon her his blessing and the very successful exercises terminated. The highest praise may be given them.

A LONG JOURNEY.

A Blackinton Man to Take a Trip to Alaska.

W. A. Hopkins of Blackinton will start next Friday on a journey to Alaska. He will go with a Raymond & Whitcomb excursion party starting from Boston, and which he will join at Pittsfield. The party will go to Denver, thence to Salt Lake City and Ogden, and on to Tacoma, Washington. At that point they will take a steamer for a voyage up the Pacific coast to a point above Sitka, Alaska. The voyage will occupy twelve days. After returning from Alaska the party will visit Yellowstone park and then travel eastward. It will take two months to make the journey and Mr. Hopkins anticipates a very enjoyable and instructive summer outing.

Mr. Hopkins is fond of travel, and of recent years he has gratified his taste in this direction to a considerable extent. A few years ago he traveled through the South and West, going as far as the City of Mexico, and last year he made the tour of Europe. He is somewhat along in years and is to be congratulated upon his physical and financial ability to indulge his liking for travel. He goes with eyes and ears open and learns much of the sections and countries he visits. His friends hope this journey will be in all respects as pleasant as the others he has taken.

In the District Court.

Gonyea Testify.

Peter and William Gonyea and Edward Gay were each bound to await trial by the superior court at its July term in $300 bonds for assault with a dangerous weapon. The Gonyeas testified this morning and claimed that while Gay had hit Peter several times with a club, they the Gonyeas had used no club. Peter confessed that he kicked Gay with all his force of muscle while Gay was down.
William Gonyea said he hit Gay with the butt of a horse whip, but not with a club and both the Gonyeas claim that Gay hit Peter first and began the fight.

John Hanley, on complaint of C. S. Foster, was charged with assault and the case was continued two weeks.

Joseph Garello, assault on Elise Jackson, was continued until Monday.

James Carey, drunkenness, was placed on six months probation.

Bridget Kelly, drunkenness, six months probation.

Michael Cadron, drunkenness, fined $3.
Samuel B. Bennet, non-support, case continued four weeks.

The dog case which was brought in by John W. Purcell who claimed that Henry Orr had in his (Mr. Orr's) possession two setters belonging to Mr. Purcell was settled this morning. It was decided that the dogs belonged to Mr. Orr.

Stockwell-Bates.

Ernest W. Stockwell and Miss Hanora Bates, both of this town, were quietly married at Hoosick Falls, N. Y., Wednesday morning by Rev. C. C. Edmunds at the Episcopal church. No announcement had been made of the approaching nuptials and the news came as a surprise to the friends of the couple whose best wishes are nevertheless most cordially extended. Mr. Stockwell is an employe of the Sunday Democrat office. The couple will make their home for the present with Mr. Stockwell's grandmother, Mrs. L. M. Southwick, No. 7 Hudson street.

Church Notes.

Tomorrow will be communion day at the Congregational church, and Rev. Dr.
John Dennison of Williamstown will officiate.

The regular services will be held at the Methodist church, with preaching, morning and evening by the pastor, Rev. Dr.
G. W. Brown.

Rev. W. D. Potter of Shelburne Falls will preach at the Universalist church in exchange with Rev. A. B. Church.

The regular order of service will be held at the Baptist church. In the morning Rev. Penney will preach a sermon which will be of special interest to the young, and every child present will receive a souvenir.

It had been arranged to have a tug of war on the fair grounds July 4 between teams from Hunter's foundry and the Windsor print works, but it is announced that the Windsor team was being made up largely of outside men, to which the other team objected, and the consequence is the "tug" is off.

ISAAC FREEMAN HALL

Some Interesting Facts About the Man Who Will Superintend Our Schools.

LETTER OF ACCEPTANCE RECEIVED.

He Will Assume Control Here September
1. Goes to Virginia for Institute Work. Some Things Gleaned From Committee Reports.

It was announced in this paper a few days ago that Isaac Freeman Hall, superintendent of the schools of Belmont and Arlington would accept the position of superintendent of the public schools of this town. Private information made it possible to make that announcement before the committee had received Mr.
Hall's letter of acceptance. That letter has been received.

The fact that Mr. Hall's coming to this town will be a matter of much public interest has led to the publication here of a very good picture of him and a more complete sketch of his life than it was possible to obtain when the announcements were made.

Mr. Hall's personal appearance is well depicted by the accompanying cut. He is a man of rather small stature, but impresses one as having a super-abundance of energy. He could easily be mistaken in his manner for the busiest kind of a business man rather than a scholar and director of schools, and unless his appearance belies him he is a man in whom the scholar and able executor are happily co-mingled. Mr. Hall was born at Dennis state in 1847. He fitted for Dartmouth college at Phillips academy. He was graduated from the Bridgewater normal school and since has had a very successful teaching experience. He taught in the Quincy schools during the famous Colonel Parker regime. He was superintendent of schools at Dedham from 1880 to 1885, and superintendent at Leominster from 1885 to 1891.

He has had charge of the Belmont schools since 1890. In 1892 he moved to Arlington and has had charge since then of the Arlington schools and those of suburban district.

Mr. Hall will assume control here September 1 and soon after that time will remove his family to this town. He has four children, three girls and one boy.
One of his daughters is in Radcliffe college and another has just graduated from high school. He will go to Virginia about July 6 for two weeks' work in connection with Peabody institute and the state summer school. Later he will do some summer school work in Vermont. His reputation makes him much in demand for such work.

He is a man of valuable experience and recognized ability. The quality of the work that he has exacted and the ideals to which he strives can be learned by a perusal of the reports of the school committee's of the towns in which he has been superintendent. In the Belmont report for 1894 is found an account of the establishment of a manual training department. This training department has grown to be a very valuable addition to Belmont's schools. The pupils are required from observation, memory or invention to draw plans of articles to be made and then to make the articles at the benches. In the same year instruction in sewing was introduced. These additions were the result of private munificence, which of course, had nothing to do with the practical way in which they were su-perserved.

In the Arlington report there are similar mentions. A new high school building there are ample opportunity for enlarged and advanced work. The science classes are taught by experienced, not simply from books. This experimental teaching is not confined to the particular hobby of a particular teacher, but is general. In this school there is manual training, too. The report shows a new classification of the schools along advanced lines and in accordance with the best educational thought. There is a kindergarten which is doing efficient and valuable work.

Mr. Hall is an author. He contributes largely to educational journals and writes with clearness and force. The Educational Publishing company of Boston publishes a valuable work of his, "Outlines for Teachers." The hints on spelling are very original and appeal strongly to the teacher. Mr. Hall maintains that to correctly spell a word a mind picture of it must be formed and on this he builds his method.

How Mr. Hall is viewed by those among whom he has lived and labored may be judged from the following which is taken from an editorial in the Arlington Advocate of the 28th.

Mr. Hall came here nearly three years ago as Arlington's first superintendent of schools and entered upon his duties with an intelligent understanding of the same gained by wide experience in other fields.
Gradually, and with less of friction than might reasonably have been expected, he united the system, rearranged the grades and pushed for the high ideals, within practical lines, which experience and frequent discussion with other professional educators suggested and with signal success. He early won the confidence, respect and friendship of the teachers, who one and all have cordially and heartily seconded his efforts to raise the standard of public school education here; consequently his retirement from the position of superintendent is regretted by them as well as by a wider circle of citizens than the school committee imagine.

possible to make that announcement before the committee had received Mr.
Hall's letter of acceptance. That letter
has been received.

town will be a matter of much public in-
very good picture of him and a more complete sketch of his life than it was possible to obtain when the announcements
were made.

Mr. Hall's personal appearance is well
is a man of rather small stature, but im-
presses one as having a super-abundance
director of schools, and unless his appearance belies him he is a man in whom
co-mingled. Mr. Hall was born at Dennis
state in 1847. He fitted for Dartmouth college at Phillips academy. He was graduated from the Bridgewater normal school
and since has had a very successful teach-
schools during the famous Colonel Parker

at Dedham from 1880 to 1885, and superintendent at Leominster from 1885 to 1891.
He has had charge of the Belmont schools
and has had charge since then of the Arlington schools and those of suburban
district.

Mr. Hall will assume control here September 1 and soon after that time will remove his family to this town. He has four children, three girls and one boy.
One of his daughters is in Radcliffe college and another has just graduated from high school. He will go to Virginia about
with Peabody institute and the state summer school. Later he will do some summer school work in Vermont. His reputa-
such work.

He is a man of valuable experience and
perusal of the reports of the school com-
been superintendent. In the Belmont re-
establishment of a manual training department. This training department has grown to be a very valuable addition to Belmont's schools. The pupils are required from observation, memory or in-
made and then to make the articles at the benches. In the same year instruction in sewing was introduced. These additions
were the result of private munificence,
which of course, had nothing to do with
perserved.

In the Arlington report there are similar mentions. A new high school building there are ample opportunity for en-
classes are taught by experienced, not simply from books. This experimental
teaching is not confined to the particular
hobby of a particular teacher, but is gen-
training, too. The report shows a new classification of the schools along ad-
best educational

THE REVOLT AGAINST PLATT.

The importance of New York in presidential elections makes generally interesting the condition of politics there. And Republican interest in this situation cannot pass by the personality of Mr. Platt, as Republican leader, if not dictator, in that State. This position of control occupied by Mr. Platt is not easily accounted for by Republicans outside that State. At the time he was Mr. Conklin's associate in the United States Senate he was not considered any great shakes either as a man or a politician. But certainly he has proved powerful enough to jeopardize Republican supremacy in New York in the past, and to divide its strength there now. He is distrusted as a politician, is suspected and has been accused of a Tammany alliance, is openly charged in the New York Tribune with antagonizing the Republican Governor and party organization of that State; and yet, despite it all, he continues in party influence, and has power to ruin if not to rule. The spectacle is a strange one to outsiders. No politician in Massachusetts, except the late General Butler, offers the least parallel to Mr. Platt; but General Butler was an exceedingly able man and his following was very much a personal one and animated also by a love of flowers and fishes.

It may be that Mr. Platt is also very able, and that a mercenary interest operates in the Empire state to continue his control, but indications of revolt are becoming apparent thus early in New York Republican procedure. The contention at Argyle we have already noted, with an outcome unfavorable to Mr. Platt; and now graver opposition is arising in other portions of that State. At Rochester it is reported organization is being quietly but effectively pushed against the rule of Mr. Platt, and not only in Monroe county, but generally throughout the State systematic effort is now being made to release the Republican party from the machine control which Mr. Platt has been able to establish. Prominent among the emissaries in the liberating work is J. Sloan Fassett, and his labors are accredited with widespread results, so that what is termed a gigantic revolt against Mr. Platt and his machine organization is regarded as already existing to an extent that is causing present fears among its opponents and as calculated to make these grave. Mr. Platt has ruled so harshly and with such self-interest, that all over his political domination, the elements of dissatisfaction are in readiness and need only a uniting agency to organize solidly and triumphantly against him and his long dictation. This agency is now reported as forthcoming and the result will be watched with interest by all Republicans, and all friends of good politics of whatever political affiliation.

THE CONTRAST IN KENTUCKY.

The Kentucky Democratic convention has ended its stormy course with a gold platform and silver candidates. Its most distinguishable outcome is the triumph of Secretary Carlisle, and the discomfiture of Senator Blackburn. Carlisle is said to desire Blackburn's seat in the United States Senate, and it looks now as if he could have it if he wants it. Carlisle is a man of honesty and ability, and of high standing and great influence in Kentucky, where he is respected and believed in, and so the Democratic convention there endorsed his position on silver, as against Blackburn's blatant demagogism in that issue. But beyond this there was little that was creditable in the proceedings or the result of the convention. Harding, nominated for governor, has said he would not run except on a silver platform, but now he has not only to accept a gold platform, but also associates personally, unacceptable to himself, notably Henry S. Hale, secretary of state, who was put upon the ticket by Harding's opponents.

In contrast with the riotous procedure and contradictory result of this Democratic convention, the dignity and harmony of the Kentucky Republican convention, noticed at the time it was held, is all the more noticeable now. Its candidates and platform are consistent with each other, and that party is free from the elements of difference and disgrace that now distinguish the Democrats of Kentucky. It will be little creditable to that state if these contrasting party qualifications have no decisive effect upon its next election.

A BUSY SUMMER.

Everything promises a season of large employment and expenditure in this town, already begun upon, and to be continued late into the fall. Both print works and the Sampson Manufacturing company have enlargements in process or in projection. The North reservoir, with its dam sixty feet high and nearly 500 feet long, will soon be begun upon. The state road construction, and that of the electric railroad to Williamstown, the putting of the telephone wires underground, the Normal school building, and the Dowlin enterprise, together with much house building for residence and renting use—all this must make work and money unusually abundant in the near future in this town. And this is only our part of the general business revival which is now reported from all sides with rising wages and increased demand in all lines of industry.

Tammany Hall's Fourth of July celebration will have no speeches for free silver. James E. Campbell of Ohio, and Thomas M. Waller of Connecticut, both ex-Governors will make the long talks and among the short talkers will be Congressman John O. Pendleton of West Virginia, Charles B. Howry of Mississippi, Joseph Wheeler of Alabama, Thomas A. E. Weadock of Michigan, and John T. Dunn of New Jersey; Solicitor-General Holmes Conrad, a Virginian; Assistant Secretary of the Navy McAdoo, and State Senators Amasa J. Parker of Albany and Jacob Rice of Kingston.

John Redmond, Parnellite leader in the British House of Commons, may not be unbiased in the advice he gives, but his present recommendation of an Irish National party to be independent of English parties is sensible. If such united political strength as Ireland had in Parliament under Mr. Parnell could again be made permanent there, it would be in such a controlling position toward Parliamentary legislation that its just demands would have to be granted.

Arizona and New Mexico will be candidates before the next Congress for admission to the Union, and because Thomas B. Reed is expected to be the next speaker of the House of Representatives, and can affect their chances there, Republican leaders in those territories announce that their vote can be reckoned as solid for Reed for President in the next Republican national convention.

Fernand Alvarez de Toledo, the bloody Duke of Alva who oppressed the Netherlands, when he died in 1582 bade his descendants erect a splendid tomb to him. He was laid away in the Convent of San Esteban in Salamanca for awhile, and now after 300 years his family has finished the monument and transferred his bones to it.

The first funds from this country in aid of Irish elections for the next British Parliament are supplied by the Philadelphia, Pa., Council of the Irish National Confederation of America to the amount of $1000 already sent to Justin McCarthy, anti-Parnellite, for the use of the Irish National Parliamentary party.

The Oliver Iron and Steel company of Pittsburgh, Pa., has notified its 300 puddlers that beginning next Monday the rate for puddling will be $4.25 a ton. This is twenty-five cents more a ton than the puddlers asked, and sixty-five cents a ton more than the company has paid for a long time.

Harry Hayward, the condemned murderer of Catherine Gine, has formally applied to the New York Life and Travelers Insurance companies for $10,000 insurance carried by his victim. Action will be taken by the executors of the estate of the murdered woman to have the assignment of the policies to Hayward set aside.

The census report covering the statistics of churches, which has just been printed, gives the communicants of the six leading denominations as follows: Catholic, 6,250,000; Methodist, 4,000,000; Baptist, 3,725,000; Presbyterian, 1,280,322; Lutheran, 1,230,000; Protestant Episcopal, 540,000.

It is reported that John W. Foster will receive as his fee for acting as the mediator in the troubles between Japan and China the sum of $250,000. This princely fee will come from the Chinese government, and it is said before Mr. Foster left the United States to intercede in behalf of the Orientals, he was paid $100,000.—Washington, D. C., Evening Star.

At the General Term of the New York Court of Common Pleas it has just been decided that a husband in possession of a wife's dog can give this away effectively and without redress from his matrimonial associate. How this will affect Pug dogs will be awaited with interest.

Now that Gov. Altgeld of Illinois has his extra session of the legislature he finds it of little use for his purpose. The Republican majority in that body refuse to increase the tax levy because they consider such action unnecessary.

The first Virginia wheat of the season was offered on Chicago "Thursday" and was sold at eighty-five cents a bushel. The offering was five days later than last year but the price is twenty-three cents higher.

Mr. Balfour is a bimetalist, convinced, zealous, militant. It will be no fault of his if there is not another international monetary conference presently, and if the British delegates do not go to it unhampered by such instructions as tied the hands of their predecessors at Brussels.—Hartford, Ct., Courant.

The Sun is willing to compromise on Manhattan as a name for New York. This would be a handsome recognition of the very excellent cocktail of that name.—Boston Herald.

WELL EQUIPPED OFFICE.

Dr. J. R. White Established in His New Quarters.

Dr. J. R. White, who lately leased the office in the Blackinton block vacated by Dr. Hobbie, has transformed the same into as complete a dental office as one need have. The large front room has been divided by partitions and the new arrangement gives a good operating room, an extracting room, and two very pleasant reception rooms, including the former private office. From a point four or five feet from the floor to the ceiling the partitions are of glass, the lower part being effectively obstructed the view there is free access of light to all the rooms. The finish of the office is very tasty and handsome. The wood work is covered with ivory enamel and the walls and ceilings are finished in water colors of light shades, with gold and colored pencils which give a very pleasing effect. The floor of the main reception room will be covered with linoleum, which with the draperies yet to be put up will place the finishing touches on the entire work and leave nothing to be desired. All the arrangements of the office have been made with a view to convenience as well as taste and beauty, and the result is most admirable facilities for the practice of dentistry. During the five years Dr. White has been located here he has built up an excellent reputation and a good practice, and in his present desirable quarters he will be able to meet the requirements of his patrons better than ever before.

—A pleasant literary and musical entertainment was given at the Braytonville chapel last evening.

—Edward Trabold, of Brooklyn street, while playing a few days ago, fell on a sharp stone and severed an artery of the leg.

—The Blackinton and North Adams teams will play on the fair grounds this afternoon. There will be a game at Greylock.

—Daniel Reagan while sharpening his knife at his work in the shoe factory yesterday got a piece of emery embedded in his eye. Dr. McGrath removed it.

—J. C. Hammond of Northampton William H. Barnes of Housatonic and Hon. A. B. Wright of this town have been appointed by the superior court commissioners on separation of grade crossings at Lee.

—At the fifth international convention of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, to be held at Baltimore July 18—21, Ezra D. Whitaker of this town will read a paper on "Membership Committee and its duties."

—If the conditions of business and industry may be judged by the business of the savings banks, North Adams has no reason to complain. Both banks are doing a good business, and the deposits at the North Adams Savings bank one day this week exceeded $10,000.

—The roof of the city hall, which had to be raised a little higher than it was to remain permanently in order to get the brick work in, was lowered to its place yesterday. There is still a little brick work to be done on the gables, but this will be finished in a few days. The work of setting the partitions was begun today.

—The organizing committee of the Central Labor union hopes to see a good number of bricklayers, plasterers, plumbers and steam and gas fitters at the meeting called for tonight. The committee feel that the signs of the times are favorable to organized labor, the contractors and employers in the building line having expressed themselves as not opposed to organization. An out-of-town speaker is expected to be present.

—The Busy Bees are holding meetings every two weeks. This is an organization of young girls whose work in behalf of the hospital last winter and spring attracted deserved attention and won for its members the praise and thanks of all who are interested in the hospital work. The fact that the Busy Bees are keeping up their meetings during this hot weather would indicate that they do not consider their mission at an end, and the chances are that they will be heard from again in a substantial way in due time.

—Scribner & Smith's big new twenty-five cent circus is again to visit our great city Monday, July 1. This really great show is entirely new this year in all departments, and much has been added since last seen here. Bazel, the giant elephant, is retained as one of the many features. Several new cages of rare animals have also been secured by Scribner & Smith's foreign agent at an enormous expense, they having arrived from the foreign lands April 10th, after a rather stormy passage. Prominent among the numerous acts engaged by Managers Scribner & Smith, will be found Willie Lowanda, champion bareback rider, Frank Cooper, the world's greatest hurdle rider, Danny O'Brien, coned by the press and public to be the champion leaper of the world. This year the show is composed of 300 men and women, 100 thoroughbred horses, three bands of music, three golden tangle cars, three open dens of wild animals, fifteen gilded cages, eight big tents. It is without doubt, the largest and best twenty-five cent circus that has ever appeared in this section.

THE MUSICAL SERVICE.

A Very Successful and Satisfying Event at St. John's Church Last Night.

The musical festival service at St. John's church last evening was the third that has been given by the surplised choir. Great credit is due the choirmaster, Joseph K. Smith, for his finely trained body of singers and for the excellent program which they rendered. It was remarked, after the service, by a professional musician who is also a skilled trainer of boys' voices, that St. John's choir was the best in western Massachusetts.

The chorus work was exceptionally good, and in Gounod's "Send Out Thy Light," and Stainer's "Ye Shall Dwell in the Land," reached its highest mark. Mrs. Frank A. Smith was in good voice and delighted the large congregation with her rendering of the soprano solos. Thomas Mort and Mrs. Smith sang "Love Divine," most acceptably, and Mrs. Whitman did excellent work in Sydenham's "Be Merciful Unto Me," and in Thomas's alto solo, "Evening," John Heywood, Sr., and Mr. Butterworth, sustained their respective solo parts of tenor and bass with credit to themselves and the choir with which they are connected. Miss Ethel Brownward sang a soprano solo in Knox's "Te Deum," and her voice is one of great sweetness and volume, and also of great promise.

Mr. Smith is to be most sincerely congratulated upon the success of the third annual festival, and he is also to be thanked for the good work he is doing in our town in a musical way. He introduces the music of the best composers only, and the boys who are under him have the advantage of a musical training which cannot be over-estimated. We congratulate the congregation of St. John's upon their choir, and hope another festival service may be held in the fall.

ONE MORE FOR ELIS.

Harvard Boys Simply Not In It In the Race at New London.

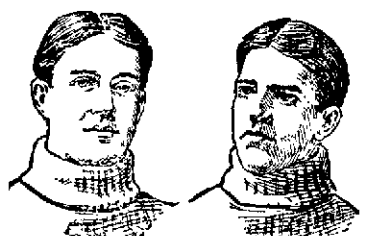

The Yales Had Nearly Ten Lengths to Spare.

Finished in Fine Trim While Their Opponents Were Exhausted.

NEW LONDON, June 29.—Yale won her fourth consecutive victory over Harvard in the university boat race here, and won easily by nearly 10 lengths, the official time being 21m. 30s. The conditions of the water and wind could not have been more favorable. Harvard had a slight advantage at the start, but when a mile had been rowed Yale was 1½ lengths in the lead. Ellis crew rowing with a safer stroke than the Harvard men, who splashed a little over the entire course. The story of the race is told in the record of the official time, which is as follows:

Miles	Yale	Harvard
1	2:04.5	2:18.0
2	4:09.0	4:30.0
3	6:13.5	6:42.0
4	8:18.0	8:54.0
5	10:22.5	11:06.0
6	12:27.0	13:18.0
7	14:31.5	15:30.0
8	16:36.0	17:42.0
9	18:40.5	19:54.0
10	20:45.0	22:06.0

Two members of the Harvard crew were badly exhausted by the time the course had been rowed, but the Yale men appeared fit for a continuation of the work and rowed a quarter of a mile without easing up their stroke.

Longene, Treadway. Armstrong, Langford.

The phrase "Yale has won!" has become such a monotony in college athletics that it is hardly possible that yesterday's race will startle anybody. Amidst a host of masts and spars, forests of fluttering flags and labors of the scurrying crews of all kinds Yale's brawny young giants composing the eight-oared crew pulled their shells over the finish line on the Thames river with an easy-going stroke that bespoke confidence that Harvard could not, under any circumstances, beat them out.

Crews never responded more promptly to the referee's warning to be ready than did Yale and Harvard. Scarcely had the whistle blasts of the referee's boat, Dora, died away than the Harvard crew, walking from their bargehouse at Red Top, bearing their shells. On the same instant, up at Gales Ferry, the men from Yale trudged down the float from their boat house with their shells.

Both crews were soon in their seats and they pushed away from the float at almost the same instant. Yale dropped into her position on the west side of the course Harvard having the eastern place on the course.

Beard, Cross. Holcomb, Dater.

Promptly at 4:43 the signal was given and both crews caught the water at the same moment. Harvard started with a quicker stroke, but the Yale boat soon forged ahead, rowing about 49 strokes a minute, while Harvard was doing 41.

The Yale men, who were on the west side of the river, rowed evenly, and their shells shot through the water very smoothly, while Harvard's craft sagged between strokes.

When the half mile mark was reached the Yale boys had a lead of two lengths, and they slowed down to a stroke of 35, but the wearers of the crimson still kept their stroke about 40. The water was smooth, and the conditions were everything that could be desired for a good race. The body work of the Yales was excellent, while that of the Harvard crew became worse.

At the mile, Yale had increased her lead to three lengths, and the men were rowing like a machine.

Both crews splashed a good deal over the 1½-mile line, but the Yalians soon recovered an even stroke of 37, and the Harvard men were down to a stroke of 35, the three lengths lead of the two-mile mark.

The Yale boat was steered by Coxswain Clark as straight as an arrow, but the Harvard coxswain seemed to lose control of his boat. At the 2½ mile flag the boat's course changed, and it made a big turn, losing a length before being straightened out.

At this point it was plainly seen that, barring accident, Yale would win in easy fashion, as she increased her lead constantly, though gradually. The body swing of the crew continued regular and steady. The Harvard men seemed to swing out of the boat.

Harvard's stroke was increased to 41, but Yale kept pegging away at 37 as the third mile was finished. When the three-mile flag was reached Yale had a lead of five lengths, and was gaining steadily. A stretch of rough water was met here, and both crews splashed considerably, but, as before, the Yale men got back into their swing in good shape.

The Harvard boys were lacking in steadiness and failed to act together. They held on bravely, although certain defeat was practically unavoidable. They were six lengths behind at the beginning of the last half-mile of the race, and the crew showed signs of the wear and tear of the struggle.

The Yale men, however, hit up their stroke from this point and rapidly gained another length by their increased efforts. The Harvard crew held on pluckily, but they were outclassed. The Yale men with each movement of their oars seemed to get together ahead, and, amid the firing of cannon, blowing of whistles and cheers of the spectators, which made a perfect pandemonium, the New Haven outsmen passed the winning flag easy winners by nearly 10 lengths.

Junnings, who was substituted for Hollister in the Harvard crew, rowed remarkably well, and the critics were loud in praise of his rowing.

At a meeting of the Yale crew last night, Ralph B. Treadway was chosen captain for the ensuing year.

Harvard did not hold a meeting for the election of a crew captain after the race. No reason was given for this deferment of the election.

WEEKLY TRADE REVIEW

Records a General Improvement in Business in All Directions.

NEW YORK, June 29.—R. G. Dun &amp; Co.'s weekly review of trade says:

The half yearly report of failures next week will include about 6000, against 7039 for the first half of last year, and liabilities of about $88,000,000, against $101,578,132 last year. But for the cordage concern the aggregate would be nearly 20 per cent less than last year and the manufacturing liabilities 26 per cent less, but including it the manufacturing liabilities will be about $100,000,000, against $117,102,126 last year, and the trading $15,000,000, against $32,345,978 last year, while miscellaneous liabilities were only $2700, against $7,856,072 last year.

Business is better, although the crop outlook affecting prospects beyond the near future is a little less distinct.

Speculation has even spread to the wool market, and with an advance of about 1 cent in prices the sales have been the largest ever known for any week—14,067,900 pounds against 6,835,690 in 1892.

Shipments of boots and shoes from the east for four weeks have been 389,836 cases, against 342,569 for the same weeks last year, which was the largest record for that month, but the fact shows how imperfectly the number of cases reflects the general condition. The prevailing preference is still for low priced goods, while the demand is good for the season. Leather continues strong, and hides, in spite of large imports, do not decline.
